MANY DEAD FROM INTENSE HEAT

Relatives Identify Body As That Of Loewenstein

FOUND AFLOAT BY FISHERMAN IN NUDE FORM

Mystery of Death of Financier Is Still Unsolved, However.

CALAIS, France, July 20.—Two brothers-in-law of Captain Alfred Loewenstein today identified the body of a man found floating in the English channel, as that of the Belgian financier.

They had come here from Brussels and looked first at the dead man's teeth and then at a wrist watch—upon which were the initials "A. L."—and said there was no question but that the body was that of Loewenstein.

The financier's widow was prostrated and unable to come to Calais as she had planned to do. Police meanwhile are rushing their official inquiry so that the body may be transported immediately to Brussels.

The two brothers-in-law of the financier visited the crew of the fishing steamer that found the body and assured them they intended to reward the crew.

PARIS, July 20.—Mystery as to the death of Captain Alfred Loewenstein continued today although a nude body, believed without a doubt to be that of the Belgian financier, has been found in the English channel and now is in a morgue at Calais.

The body was found yesterday by a fishing vessel about 10 miles north of Calais. It was floating in the water.

The body was nude save for a pair of silk hose and gold wrist watch. On the wrist watch were the initials "A. L." and this was the first indication that it might be the Belgian financier who was reported to be missing after he had started from Croydon, air-drome, London, in his Fokker airplane for a trans-channel flight to Belgium.

Police at Calais compared the corpse with photographs of the financier and with Loewenstein's measurements and said there was not the slightest question but that Loewenstein's body had been found.

Authorities, however, were greatly puzzled at finding no clothing. There was one opinion that Loewenstein may have fallen from the Fokker airplane—having mistaken an outer cabin door for a door that led to the plane's retiring room—and had been still alive when he struck the water. They pointed out the financier may have torn off his clothing in an attempt to keep floating in the rough channel waters.

Another theory brought up was that Loewenstein had desired to end his own life, had disrobed before leaving the airplane and then had leaped into the water, tossing the clothes ahead of him.

A police autopsy over the body showed the left side had been badly torn, the stomach injured and the left shoulder fractured.

Loewenstein's bankers, his widow and his employees were notified immediately and announced they would confer with Calais police Friday afternoon.

There was much mystery in connection with Loewenstein's disappearance. Members of his airplane party reported his absence was discovered at about mid-channel and they said he apparently had mistaken the outer door of the plane for the door leading into the retiring room, pointing out he often was absent minded about doors.

Considerable disbelief followed in London and Paris particularly an investigation tended to disclose that it would be impossible for the outer cabin door to be opened while the plane was in full flight. Many had believed Loewenstein never had attempted the flight but was planning a hoax of some sort.

TEN ARE HELD WITH INQUIRY TO END TODAY

And Then Execution of Slaying of Obregon Is Expected Momentarily.

MEXICO CITY, July 20.—Investigation of the assassination of General Alvaro Obregon—already officially blamed to the "Catholic clergy"—may end today and the execution of young Jose De Leon Toral may come momentarily.

Ten persons, in addition to the confessed murderer, now are held and Chief of Police Rhee Zertuche said the general inspection of the crime almost was concluded.

"Police headquarters now is in a position to make public that responsibility for the crime rests with the Catholic clergy," Zertuche's statement said.

Previously President Plutarco Calles had blamed the murder of his friend and political adviser to a "religious fanatic."

Zertuche made the first official statement of the police on the Obregon slaying last night, after he had taken Toral before newspapermen so that they might see he had not been mistreated.

"The general inspection of police, now held my charge, are about to conclude investigation of the murder of General Obregon and perhaps tomorrow we will be able to make known the results in every detail," Zertuche said.

Previously he had ordered Toral walked up to Obregon in a suburban restaurant, fired five shots in the former president's body, then claimed he had "done what I came to do"—brought before a group of newspapermen, including the foreign correspondents.

"We want to prove he has not had hard treatment as has been reported," Zertuche said.

Toral walked into the office between two guards. He was young in appearance, his face was set and his eyes sparkled. His right eye was swollen—the result police said, of an attack just after Obregon had been shot—but otherwise he appeared in good physical condition. He wore a brown suit and there were blood stains on the coat lapel.

Zertuche ordered Toral to walk back and forth across the room, to prove he was not physically unfit. The assassin did so, walking slowly but with no hesitation.

"Sit down," the police head said.

Toral slouched to a chair and stared somewhat vacantly about the room.

"Can you talk?" Zertuche asked his prisoner.

"I think so," Toral said in a clear and direct tone.

"You see he is perfectly well," the police head said.

There was no effort made to question the 23-year-old murderer. He seemed at ease but offered no comment on the crime that had robbed Mexico of her former one-armed leader. Finally he was led from the room.

Semi-official reports said today that Toral would be granted a civil trial immediately. The general expectation was that his execution would follow immediately, just as did the execution of four men accused of attempting to bomb General Obregon's motor car last fall. It was believed generally that Toral would be executed in the same spot, in the headquarters yard where the priest from Juarez and the three other alleged bombers were shot by a firing squad last fall.

General Obregon Assassinated

Bearing a charmed life on a dozen battlefields, General Alvaro Obregon, president-elect of Mexico, was shot to death as he sat among his friends at a banquet in the little town of San Angel just outside the gates of the capital. On the pretext of submitting several of his drawings, Juan Escapulario, a cartoonist, approached and sent seven bullets crashing into his head from a revolver concealed under a hat.

Ohio Reports a Number of Deaths While a Score Are Dead In the East.

Heavy rains in many sections of the state, brought slight relief today from the heat wave which has been sweeping the state for three days.

The toll of dead—either directly or indirectly due to the heat—continued to mount as isolated sections were heard from.

Lake and river beaches were jammed by thousands of bathers who sought relief from the torrid temperatures.

Deaths were recorded as follows: Wilmington—Salome Hartman, 48, nurse, drowned. Police said she committed suicide.

Bucyrus—Oney H. Morrison, 58, heat victim.

Zanesville—William H. East, 64, heat.

Youngstown—B. C. Hall, blinded by heat, electrocuted when he came in contact with high tension wire.

Ohtown—Eunice Sheldon, 11, killed by lightning during storm. The girl, with 2 little friends, was picnicking when the storm broke. The storm swept into Lawrence county, causing considerable damage.

Cincinnati—Mrs. Anna Ritter, 56, heat. Orville Wilson, 17, drowned in Little Miami river.

Other points reporting deaths were Cleveland, 2; and one each in Akron, Bellefontaine, Berea, Columbus, Newcomerstown, Sandusky and Tiffin.

Several prostrations were reported.

The heat in some sections was so intense that asphalt roads expanded in spots.

Cincinnati reported a temperature of 92.

A steadily mounting death toll resulting from the heat wave was reported in the eastern half of the U. S. today.

Twenty deaths in the East and seven in Chicago area were attributed to high temperatures which have been prevalent over the eastern part of the country for four days.

For the last 24 hours weather bureau forecasts have promised rain. In Chicago the rain came along with an electrical storm which took several lives, but failed to reduce temperatures.

In New York there was a high rate of humidity which added to the suffering of persons living in the congested parts of Manhattan and Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Upwards of a score of deaths were reported in the East today as a result of the four day heat wave.

No immediate relief was in sight for New York City where the death toll mounted to 8 within the last 24 hours. Three deaths were reported from Connecticut where cooling breezes were believed to have broken the hot spell. Washington reported five prostrations and the prospect of showers.

Forecasters here foresaw rain for last night but it failed to come and today dawned humid and hot. The temperature remained in the eighties all night and began climbing again with the sun.

City pavements were steaming and suffering was intense in the more congested districts where the breeze could not penetrate because of the tall buildings. Parks were crowded during the night with persons who could not sleep in their homes because of the heat.

At least one big industrial concern, the New York Central Railroad, had mercy on its employees yesterday and gave them the afternoon off. It was just as well as no one could work efficiently under the canopy of clouds that hung like a hot lid over Manhattan.

Beach resorts were thronged as usual with bathers standing shoulder to shoulder in the shallow surf of Long Island and the Jersey coast.

HEAT IS FATAL

BUCYRUS, O., July 20.—Oney H. Morrison, 58, collapsed from the heat at his place of business here yesterday and died later at his home from heart trouble.

"The general inspection of police, now held my charge, are about to conclude investigation of the murder of General Obregon and perhaps tomorrow we will be able to make known the results in every detail," Zertuche said.

Previously he had ordered Toral—the young caricaturist who walked up to Obregon in a suburban restaurant, fired five shots into the former president's body, then claimed he had "done what I came to do"—brought before a group of newspapermen, including the foreign correspondents.

"We want to prove he has not had hard treatment as has been reported," Zertuche said. Toral walked into the office between two guards. He was young in appearance, his face was set and his eyes sparkled. His right eye was swollen—the result police said, of an attack just after Obregon has been shot—but otherwise he appeared in good physical condition. He wore a brown suit and there were blood stains on the coat lapel.

Zertuche ordered Toral to walk back and forth across the room, to prove he was not physically unfit. The assassin did so, walking slowly but with no hesitation.

"Sit down," the police head said.

Toral slouched to a chair and stared somewhat vacantly about the room.

"Can you talk?" Zertuche asked his prisoner.

"I think so," Toral said in a clear and direct tone.

"You see he is perfectly well," the police head said.

There was no effort made to question the 23-year-old murderer. He seemed at ease but offered no comment on the crime that had robbed Mexico of her former one-armed leader. Finally he was led from the room.

Semi-official reports said today that Toral would be granted a civil trial immediately. The general expectation was that his execution would follow immediately, just as did the execution of four men accused of attempting to bomb General Obregon's motor car last fall. It was believed generally that Toral would be executed in the same spot in the headquarters yard where the priest from Juarez and the three other alleged bombers were shot by a firing squad last fall.

General Obregon Assassinated

Bearing a charmed life on a dozen battlefields, General Alvaro Obregon, president-elect of Mexico, was shot to death as he sat among his friends at a banquet in the little town of San Angel just outside the gates of the capital. On the pretext of submitting several of his drawings, Juan Escapulario, a cartoonist, approached and sent seven bullets crashing into his body from a revolver concealed under a hat.

Above an intimate photo of the martyred president-elect and his family, taken in the garden of their beautiful country estate. In addition to the general and his wife, it shows their five children, l to r, Humbor, Alvaro, Jr., Alvita, Mayo and Refugio. The full-length study at the left is a recent photograph of the one-armed leader, as is also the portrait at the right.

TOLL MOUNTS WHEN RELIEF DOESN'T COME

Ohio Reports a Number of Deaths While a Score Are Dead in the East.

Heavy rains in many sections of the state, brought slight relief today from the heat wave which has been sweeping the state for three days.

The toll of dead—either directly or indirectly due to the heat—continued to mount as isolated sections were heard from.

Lake and river beaches were jammed by thousands of bathers who sought relief from the torrid temperatures.

Deaths were recorded as follows:

Wilmington.—Salome Hartman, 48, nurse, drowned. Police said she committed suicide.

Bucyrus.—Oney H. Morrison, 58, heat victim.

Zanesville.—William H. Fast, 64, heat.

Youngstown.—E. C. Hall, blinded by heat, electrocuted when he came in contact with high tension wire.

Ohtown.—Eunice Sheldon, 11, killed by lightning during storm. The girl, with 2 little friends, was picnicking when the storm broke. The storm swept into Lawrence county, causing considerable damage.

Cincinnati.—Mrs. Anna Ritter, 56, heat. Orval Wilson, 17, drowned in Little Miami river.

Other points reporting deaths were Cleveland, 2; and one each in Akron, Bellefontaine, Berea, Columbus, Newcomerstown, Sandusky and Tiffin.

Several prostrations were reported.

The heat in some sections was so torrid that asphalt roads expanded in spots.

Cincinnati reported a temperature of 92.

A steadily mounting death toll resulting from the heat wave was reported in the eastern half of the U. S. today.

Twenty deaths in the East and seven in Chicago area were attributed to high temperatures which have been prevalent over the eastern part of the country for four days.

For the last 24 hours weather bureau forecasts have promised rain. In Chicago the rain came along with an electrical storm which took several lives, but failed to reduce temperatures.

In New York there was a high rate of humidity which added to the suffering of persons living in the congested parts of Manhattan and Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Upwards of a score of deaths were reported in the East today as a result of the four day heat wave.

No immediate relief was in sight for New York City where the death toll mounted to 8 within the last 24 hours. Three deaths were reported from Connecticut where cooling breezes were believed to have broken the hot spell. Washington reported five prostrations and the prospect of showers.

Forecasters here foresaw rain for last night but it failed to come and today dawned humid and hot. The temperature remained in the eighties all night and began climbing again with the sun.

City pavements were steaming and suffering was intense in the more congested districts where the breeze could not penetrate because of the tall buildings. Parks were crowded during the night with persons who could not sleep in their homes because of the heat.

At least one big industrial concern, the New York Central Railroad, had mercy on its employees yesterday and gave them the afternoon off. It was just as well as no one could work efficiently under the canopy of clouds that hung like a hot lid over Manhattan.

Beach resorts were thronged as usual with bathers standing shoulder to shoulder in the shallow surf of Long Island and the Jersey coast.

HEAT IS FATAL

BUCYRUS, O., July 20.—Oney H. Morrison, 53, collapsed from the heat at his place of business here yesterday and died later at his home from heart trouble.

AMERICAN OLYMPIC TEAM ARRIVES IN AMSTERDAM

VOYAGE OVER, TEAM IS IN FINE FETTLE

Team In Wonderful Shape Hopes To Repeat Its 1924 Triumphs.

BY FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)
AMSTERDAM, Holland, July 20.—America's Olympic team bent on repeating the 1924 victory of Paris, arrived here today after a most thoroughly comfortable voyage from the United States aboard the S. S. President Roosevelt.

The scores of athletes, all appearing in perfect condition, rushed to go ashore so they might begin training for the great track, field and water tests that start just nine days from now.

"It has been a remarkably fine trip in every way," Brig. Gen. Douglas MacArthur said after the team had gone ashore. "The team is in wonderful shape and we can have no alibis concerning the voyage."

Probably the happiest of the arrivals were the five horses belonging to the equestrian and pentathlon teams. They did not even seem appreciative of the remarkably smooth sea voyage.

As soon as the Roosevelt docked, the athletes went ashore searching for their various training fields. Boxers and wrestlers alone are without facilities and at present will remain aboard the Roosevelt, going ashore only for road work.

The crews immediately transferred their shells to a canal boat to be transported to the Slottien canal. The course is 45 minutes from the Roosevelt and the crews will therefore have luncheon at the canal daily and return here every night.

All the other teams will have their meals aboard the vessel and will be under strict curfew supervision, with the exception of the equestrians. They will go to Hilversum with representatives of 20 other nations for their training.

Swimmers found the men's pool was but three minutes by launch from the Roosevelt, while the women's pool is ten minutes away. Divers, however, must work out at the stadium.

The marathon runners were driven twice over the marathon course shortly after the Roosevelt had docked. Cyclists start their workouts Saturday.

The weight men and wrestlers tentatively have accepted an invitation to appear at Berne on August 7.

The spirit of America's army to this ninth Olympiad was remarkable. They all appeared to have enjoyed the crossing immensely and all seemed unusually eager to start the nine days training that will precede the actual opening of the international track event.

TUNNEY ISN'T GOING TO K. O. TOM IN FIGHT

Rugged New Zealand Blacksmith Said To Be A Bear For Punishment.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
U. P. Staff Correspondent

FAIR HAVEN, N. J., July 20.—Another heavyweight championship title may change hands by decision next Thursday night at the Yankee stadium when Tom Heeneey, who built his broad back by swinging a sledgehammer over an anvil in a New Zealand blacksmith shop, meets Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion in a 15 round title bout.

The title changed hands for the first time in history by decision when Tunney dethroned Dempsey in a rain at Philadelphia in Sept., 1926.

Tunney hasn't a chance to knock out Heeneey. Heeneey isn't a smart boxer but he is rugged enough to take the champion's best shots over the 15-round route.

Tunney is not meeting a leg-weary Dempsey this time. Heeneey doesn't carry the murderous punch of Dempsey but he has the strength and endurance to stand up under the most terrific punishment Tunney can give him.

The challenger has no regard whatsoever for Tunney's ability as a champion, a boxer, or a fighter.

"Because Tunney is champion doesn't mean a thing to me," Heeneey said today. "He is just another fighter to me. I am willing to trade punches with him for 15 rounds and believe I will come out ahead."

Tunney got Dempsey's goat by flying from Stroudsburg, Pa., to Philadelphia for his first fight. Tunney thinks he will get Heeneey's goat by flying from Spectacular, N. Y., to New York for this fight. In view of the recent accident in which two of the champion's friends were injured, Tunney apparently is afraid not to live up to his original plan to fly to New York for this fight, but he hasn't a ghost of a chance to unnerve Heeneey by making the trip by air.

"I don't care if Tunney walks to New York the day of the fight," Heeneey said this morning. "That guy makes me tired about all of his silly superstitions. This fight is not going to be won by any scheme or plans. The guy that lands the most blows for 15 rounds is going to win and I believe I can hit Tunney oftener over this route than he can hit me."

SPORTSMATTER

FRANK GETTY

Among the track and field athletes who will compete for the Olympic medals at Amsterdam were some of America's greatest athletes, theoretically the 82 members of the United States track and field team represent the nation's best athletes. Actually, they do not.

From the athletes not selected for the Olympic team another group could be selected which undoubtedly would roll up many points at Amsterdam.

The most flagrant example of injustice done to the athletes competing for the Olympic team at Amsterdam involved Ross Nichols, Stanford university's great hurdler. Leading the field in the final of the 110-meter hurdles, Nichols stumbled on the ninth hurdle and fell to the ground, finishing last.

Specific proof was given the Olympic Selection Committee that the hurdle which tripped Nichols was out of place through negligence of the officials, but the committee refused to place Nichols on the team. Prior to this Nichols had won the intercollegiate 120-yard hurdle championship and proved he was one of the country's outstanding hurdlers.

Baskin Thought Wrongly
C. E. Patterson of Princeton, one of the assistant marshals, at the Olympic finals, saw the hurdle out of place in Nichols' lane and rushed forward to put it back in place only to desert as he feared he might rattle Nichols who was nearing the hurdle.

EVER SMOKE RIPE TOBACCO CIGARS?

Maybe, But Did You Ever Buy Them for a Nickel?

Most every smoker knows that the secret of true, sweet, mellow, mild flavor in a cigar is fully ripened tobacco. The top leaves of the tobacco plant are under-ripe at harvest—they are usually bitter. The bottom leaves are over-ripe—usually "flat." The choice fully-ripe middle leaves are generally sorted out and used only in the higher priced cigars.

But here, gentlemen, is a five-roller made of ripe tobacco from "riest to wrapper." Havana Ribbon. Ripe tobacco—One nickel—Perfect smoking—Money saving! ... Isn't that just about the most sensational cigar news that's come your way in many a day? Grab a nickel; light out to the nearest cigar counter; light up a Havana Ribbon; and light into the nearest nickel-smoke that's ever touched your lips. Also sold in P. O. TILDEN TO WATCH TILT SITTING ON SIDELINES TODAY

PARIS, July 20—United States started one of her most difficult bids towards reclaiming the Davis Cup Tennis trophy today—the Inter-Zone finals against Italy—minus the services of William T. Tilden, for years the driving force of American tennis teams.

Tilden was barred from the team yesterday and declared to have violated the amateur ruling by writing of the Wimbledon matches in which he was a competitor. He refuted the charges, blamed "New York officials," refused to permit French tennis stars to protest the decision, and today will sit on the side-lines to watch the trio of rather inexperienced players go against the crack Italian team.

Water of Meaco Pool Is Luring Those Who Love To Cavort In Water.

The water of Meaco Pool, Chillicothe, Ohio, was tested by the city chemist of the City Health Department, and the results of this test indicate that the water in Meaco Pool is free from pollution and has the approval of the City Health Department as a pool in which no need fear of coming in contact with any infectious bacteria.

This report is highly pleasing to the management of the Meaco Pool as they have been making every effort to maintain a strictly sanitary and healthful as well as pleasant condition at this public pleasure park.

Before opening Meaco Pool this season, the equipment was given a thorough cleaning and overhauling. The pool itself was painted with a white concrete cement especially adapted for swimming pools, which has added considerably to its attractiveness. A competent life guard and manager were engaged for the season which assures the inexperienced swimmer absolute safety and protection while engaged on this healthful sport. These men also assure the pool being maintained and operated in an orderly manner and display a courtesy in their relations to the public patronizing the pool, which is desired.

The water in Meaco Pool is replaced one one-half times daily by a continuous flow of pure water from the deep wells of The Mead Pulp and Paper company from an eight inch feed pipe, which water overflows to drains at the water level of the pool. The water is chlorinated at its source to prevent any objectionable bacteria from polluting the pool.

Showers are furnished for the swimmers to be used before entering the pool and after leaving, and convenient locker and towel service is available for each individual.

Large crowds have been patronizing this pool this year, finding relief from the intense heat which we have been having in this vicinity this season. The sand beaches, diving boards and cool water at Meaco Pool have been a source of pleasure to many in the past few weeks.

PLAYS DELAY IN COURTS AS CAUSE OF CRIME WAVE

LANCASTER, O., July 20.—Clinton D. Boyd, Middletown candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, speaking at a political rally here today declared that the delay in the country's courts is not due to laws but to their administration. "Because of our slow justice," said Boyd, "statistics show that 10,000 murders are committed in the United States every year and that although 175,000 murders have been committed in this country during the last 20 years, less than 2,000 persons have been brought to justice."

Less than 18,000 murderers are now in the penitentiary, and it is estimated on good authority that more than 135,000 persons who have unlawfully taken human lives are now at large in the United States. This is a larger number than all the policemen, sheriffs, and constables in the United States. It is larger than the militia of all the states. "Of the 10,000 murders committed annually in the United States fewer than 3,500 murderers are arrested, less than 1,000 are convicted, and fewer than 100 pay the death penalty."

FARMER IS SLAIN AFTER ARGUMENT

TOLEDO, O., July 20.—A 63 year old farmer of Point Place was slain early Friday by a passing motorist who was engaged in a chance argument with the farmer.

After shooting five shots at Schonger, the slayer ran to a Ford roadster he had left 100 feet up the road, entered it and with another man.

WHEN THE WIND CALLS

A high school lad was picked up penniless in New York the other day. He had run away from his middle western home to go to sea; and he confided to the officers who took him in tow that it was all the fault of the west wind.

He didn't exactly put it that way, of course. What he said was that every morning, as he went about his tasks on his father's farm, the wind came sweeping in over the meadows, clear and odorless with the winey scent of a country dawn. It stirred strange longings in his breast; it attempted flight to sea was an effort to realize those obscure urges.

He was given a railway ticket and sent back home. He may never see salt water again. But the wind will continue to torment him. It is one of the little spurs with which the earth rowels her children now and then, so that they may not be content to become clods or automatons.

There are many similar little spurs in this life; things that stir us to sudden longings for escape, that persuade us that there are rich experiences in the world which our daily lives miss. Yet to yield to these moods—to run away to sea, as this farmer's boy did—is to miss the point entirely.

Consider the farmer's boy for a minute. He stands in a dewy pasture, just as dawn, and the morning breeze sweeps in on him and makes him feel that there are far places and great events awaiting him elsewhere; so he wants to get to sea. Yet if he should become a sailor, and ship for Singapore or Socotra, he would be no better off. The wind and the dawn would still delude him, though his ship were anchored at Mandalay itself.

For the truth is that these disquieting hints given us by nature are ends in themselves. They are not meant to be acted on, for that is impossible. When you look down your street on a quiet moonlight night, and the familiar scene is transfigured, so that you feel that life somehow ought to be richer and more beautiful than you have found it—that, in itself, is enough. Unless you are more fortunate than most you never will be able to indulge the wanderlust that a fresh morning inspires; but to feel your heart beat in unison with the morning is sufficient.

The savor of life is made up of just such trifles. To be able to catch the hints that nature throws out, even if you cannot act on them—that is the secret. That brings conviction that the earth is lovely. It brings understanding—and a measure of deliverance.

NOTIFYING THE CANDIDATES

One of the events of a presidential campaign is always the "notification" of the candidate. Our people carry a certain love for forms and ceremonies into politics. From the importance attached to this notification, it might be supposed that the candidate did not know that the convention had nominated him, until some influential delegation calls upon him and informs him that he has been given this great honor.

Whereupon the candidate, not wholly surprised at this news, which has in some way leaked through to him, responds appropriately in a lengthy speech. Then the campaign is all set for action. If these impressive ceremonies serve the purpose of waking the voters up to the fact that a political campaign is on that will vastly affect their affairs for the next four years, they serve a useful purpose.

HELPING YOUR HOME TOWN

"I like and am fond of my home town," many people say, "but I do not know of anything special I can do to help it. We have organizations which appoint officers and committees to attend to all that."

But organizations and officers and committees can not do the whole thing. Everyone has to take hold and do something. Every time you mow your lawn and keep it looking nice, every time you carry waste paper home and take care of it properly, instead of throwing it away in the street, every time you say a good word for your home town, every time you help make strangers and visitors feel happy there, you do something for Circleville.

SOLACE

Friendship is a priceless thing. Neither gold nor fame can bring All the joy it means to you When your day seems pretty blue—

Life has had its clouds, and I Almost wished that it would die. Then a Jim or George or Jack Would slap me upon the back, Fill me just chock full of joy With a, "How are you, old boy!"

I'd forget my blue thoughts then In the pleasure of this friend; He would cheer me up, and say! Soon the clouds would break away

And the sun comes beaming down To alleviate my frown— Birds I never knew could sing Tossed me greetings on the wing—

It is up to you, I'd say, To be happy every day. Friendship lightens every job You forget your dismal sob; Don't let little things destroy Friendships that will bring you joy.

Friends pay dividends each day When they pass you on Life's way.

RESCUED ARCTIC MEN START HOME

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, July 20.—Rescued from the frozenover bleak and desolate Arctic area, where for days and weeks it seemed they must die in a gallant exploration effort, part of the crew of the dirigible Italia prepared today to return to their homes in Italy.

The men that have been rescued by the Russian ice breaker Krassin have arrived in Kings Bay and soon will be transferred from the Krassin to the Citta Di Milano and thence start on their homeward trip—a trip many had believed never would be taken.

Letters To The Editor

Editor Circleville Herald:

UNFAIR METHODS

The story has been circulated throughout the county, especially among owners of dogs, that the sheriff is responsible for the appointment of Charles Buskirk dog catcher, and that he (the sheriff) is also responsible for the increase in taxes on dogs.

The fact is that the sheriff had nothing to do with the appointment of a dog catcher, the latter being appointed by the county commissioners, and he is wholly under the supervision of the county auditor and not the sheriff. The tax on male dogs was increased from one to two dollars, and on female animals to six dollars. This increase was made by the county commissioners on recommendation of the county auditor. It seems that the latter could not make ends meet on the amount the county was receiving on dog taxes, pay the salary of the dog catcher, and pay sheep claims, and he recommended that the taxes be doubled, which they were, nearly a year ago.

Love's Ecstasy

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

ALEDA RAY, pretty, blue-eyed country girl, unintentionally caused an automobile accident in which Gary Chester, young engineer, is injured. Next day Alela leaves her home for New York to find work. On the train she makes the acquaintance of Marise de Rensse, proprietor of a New York cabaret, who invites Alela to make her home with her in the city. Alela gets a secretarial position and learns that Gary Chester is employed by the same concern. Chester fails to recognize her. Lonely and downcast, Alela decides to visit Marise.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

ALEDA, looking in at the front window of Marise's old-fashioned house in the West Forties, glimpsed the tableau on the piano. The Englishman, Clive Mortimer, was playing dreamily, and Marise crooning a song.

Again that "unwanted" feeling touched the girl. She was still hurt by Gary Chester's failure to acknowledge her. She felt immeasurably alone. Surely Marise, her arm possessively resting on the shoulders of the player, wouldn't want a third party to intrude upon her tete-a-tete? Nothing but kindness, and pity for Alela's loneliness, had prompted the invitation to come here.

Her impulse was to run. At once. She turned to run. But at that moment a negro woman opened the front door. The singing ceased. "That you, my dear?" There was a whiff of perfume, a flutter of scarlet chiffon draperies as Marise ran for the door through the dividing curtains, into the hall, to greet her guest. "Come right in. You're as welcome as June roses!"

Oh, happy was Marise's light, coming laugh!

Handsome she looked, in her gray frock of red. Her lips matched her dress exactly, her teeth—so extraordinarily even—were a flash of white. Even with the high-waisted, flaring, high-collared dress, she looked much younger and more vital than she had on their previous meeting in the train.

"Clive dear, you remember my little country friend, Miss Ray?" The Englishman turned on the piano stool with a lazy air. "Chawmed to meet you, I'm sure." He held out a white, indolent-looking hand. His eyes, set much too close together for attractiveness, narrowed as he surveyed the girl.

Marise watched him like a hawk. He was well aware of the older woman's scrutiny. He would commit no error, while she was about.

"Here, take Miss Ray's hat and coat, and put them in the hall cupboard, like a good boy." In kindly fashion, Marise fussed about Alela. "Dinner will be ready in two shakes—"

"Speaking of shakes," drawled Clive, returning to the living-room after taking away the traps, "reminds me of the cocktail-shaker. Don't you think, Marise, our little get-together—arrangement—is worthy of a fitting celebration?"

"Not in the middle of the day, bad boy!" Marise shook her forefinger at him and seemed in great fettle. Then, to Alela: "I've just given our black sheep a job. He's going to help me run the Harvest Moon, on a commission basis."

"And so we'll drink to the success of the new venture." He pressed the bell-push, summoning the negro woman. "Three oranges—and ice. And make it snappy."

"Of all the nerve!" rebuked Marise. Then, to Alela: "Clive has such a way with him—so lordly and sort of condescending, like all his countrymen—I just can't get mad at him!"

Clive sank into the most comfortable chair, stretching out his long, beautifully-tailored legs. He drawled, nonchalantly: "You women over here require a master. This vaunted independence of American females is all rot. There wouldn't be one twentieth of the divorces in the United States if M.A.N. was the boss as is the case in Europe. And, if you only knew it, women are much happier when they don't get everything their own way, but have to take their orders from the superior will, which should be found only in the male sex."

"Hence your fatal fascination?" laughed Marise. From a red-leather pocketbook on the piano she quickly pulled out a little mirror and a powder-puff. "But—"

—challengingly—"even if we American women are big bullies, you will hand it to us, won't you, for good looks?"

"Most certainly," Clive bowed in such a patronizing fashion that Alela could have slapped the man. "Even all over Europe it's conceded that American women are handsome, and wear their clothes better than any other women can. Why, then, not take up a graceful position, and stop this eternal coquetry?"

Keep a Close Watch on Baby's Appetite

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health New York City.

THERE are many things about a baby which a young mother is not expected to know. I read of a mother who just presented her husband with the twenty-second child and all the brothers and sisters are living! That mother must know a lot about babies. But the average mother cannot be expected to recognize every sign of approaching trouble, or to properly analyze the significance of every little symptom.

To a trained observer the scales, the skin, the eyes and the temper tell everything about a baby. They mean little to the mother. She is often in doubt. She has many a worry over the infant.

Whenever the mother suspects something is wrong, but does not know just what it is, she should consult the doctor or go to a baby health station for advice. It is not well to delay. Many times the welfare and, perhaps, the life of the little one depends on the right care, applied early. Loss of appetite, particularly, is one of the symptoms which should not be overlooked.

You cannot be governed in your opinion of the child wholly by the appetite of the baby. There may be loss of weight from loss of appetite, with refusal of food. There may be loss of weight from indigestion due to the indulgence of an over-stimulated appetite. A ravenous appetite may be due to abnormal conditions. In short, then, the appetite is not a positive sign of health, or of the lack of health.

Failure of the baby to take his food may be due to one of several causes. Let us see what some of them are.

A sore throat or a sore mouth may be the cause. It hurts to swallow, or it hurts to feed. Naturally, the infant declines to eat because of the pain when it is attempted. The delicate tissues may be injured by something the baby has put in its mouth or if it has reached that age there may be intense soreness of the gums from teething.

Probably the most common cause of lost appetite is wrong feeding. By this I mean the feeding of the wrong food or giving too much of the right food. Both are common faults.

Perhaps the most frequent mistake in infant feeding is the giving of a mixture too strong in its milk content. Reducing the amount of milk and sugar, or giving less top milk may speedily restore the appetite.

This is a very general statement, of course. It must not be considered as anywhere near infallible. Instead of acting on your own account, it is better in every case to consult your doctor and follow the advice he gives after a personal examination of the child.

Another piece of general advice is to cut down the number of feedings, increasing the interval between them. You know, you have no appetite if your meals are too close together. It is the same with a baby. Acting on these suggestions will be likely to increase the appetite and prepare the child for a richer mixture and a larger quantity of food. But don't neglect to seek your doctor's advice if the trouble does not yield promptly. It is much easier for him to bring about speedy relief if he is called early. It is, indeed, true of baby ailments that "a stitch in time saves nine."

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Circleville War Veteran Sent To Get Physician For Lincoln On Fatal Night He Was Killed

Passing of Oscar H. Spencer Recalls Incident of Civil War Days.

The passing of Oscar H. Spencer has brought to light a most interesting episode in the man's life history.

It is well known that he was a veteran of the Civil war. He served in Company A, 27th O. V. I., during the strife. His regiment was moved to Washington D. C., and his company was detailed as President Lincoln's body guard. One man was selected from each company of the regiment, and Mr. Spencer was one of these. The body guard was mounted.

It happened that on the night of the assassination of the president, Mr. Spencer was detailed to summon a certain surgeon designated by the captain. Mr. Spencer went to the home of the surgeon. It seems that the latter had just returned from a case and at first refused to answer the call, saying that his horse was too fractious to take down town.

Mr. Spencer replied that the surgeon could take his mount, which he did, and the two rode hurriedly to the house across the street from the Ford theatre, where the body of Lincoln was taken following the shooting. The horse that Mr. Spencer rode, was really a wild animal. He stumbled on the cobble paved street, and Mr. Spencer fell beneath his horse. Two of his ribs were broken, and he was removed to a hospital where he remained several weeks, and did not get to see the funeral of the president.

The funeral of Mr. Spencer was held from the Post room, Memorial Hall Thursday afternoon. Rev. Franklin McElfresh officiated.

The pallbearers were Joseph Lynch, Mack Parrett and Clark Will members of the American Legion; J. A. McLaughlin, Fred R. Nicholas and C. A. Leist, members of the Odd Fellows lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. John Payne, Asa Williams of Cincinnati, Mrs. W. S. Green of Springfield, and her son of Cleveland, attended the funeral. The interment was made in Forest cemetery under the direction of Mader and Ebert, funeral directors.

Hoover referred to prohibition as an experiment, and we have to admit a lot of people we know have been doing a lot of experimenting—Springfield (Ohio) Sun.

True Economy Is Often Wise Spending

Economy doesn't always mean SAVING money. More often than not it concerns itself with SPENDING. There are certain things you must have for the comfort of yourself and family. AMERICAN OLYMPIC TEAM ARRIVES IN AMSTERDAM

VOYAGE OVER, TEAM IS IN FINE FETTLE

Team In Wonderful Shape Hopes To Repeat Its 1924 Triumphs.

BY FRANK GETTY (United Press Sports Editor) AMSTERDAM, Holland, July 20.—America's Olympic team bent on repeating the 1924 victory of Paris, arrived here today after a most thoroughly comfortable voyage from the United States aboard the S. S. President Roosevelt.

The scores of athletes, all appearing in perfect condition, rushed to go ashore so they might begin training for the great track, field and water tests that start just nine days from now.

"It has been a remarkably fine trip in every way," Brig. Gen. Douglas Mac Arthur said after the team had gone ashore. "The team is in wonderful shape and we can have no alibis concerning the voyage."

Probably the happiest of the arrivals were the five horses belonging to the equestrian and pentathlon teams. They did not even seem appreciative of the remarkably smooth sea voyage.

As soon as the Roosevelt docked, the athletes went ashore searching for their various training fields. Boxers and wrestlers alone are without facilities and at present will remain aboard the Roosevelt, going ashore only for road work.

The crews immediately transferred their shells to a canal boat to be transported to the Slotten canal. The course is 45 minutes from the Roosevelt and the crews will therefore have luncheon at the canal daily and return here every night.

All the other teams will have their meals aboard the vessel and will be under strict curfew supervision, with the exception of the equestrians. They will go to Hilversum with representatives of 20 other nations for their training.

Swimmers found the men's pool was but three minutes by launch from the Roosevelt, while the women's pool is ten minutes away. Divers, however, must work out at the stadium.

The marathon runners were driven twice over the marathon course shortly after the Roosevelt had docked. Cyclists start their workouts Saturday.

The weight men and wrestlers tentatively have accepted an invitation to appear at Berne on August 7.

The spirit of America's army to this ninth Olympiad was remarkable. They all appeared to have enjoyed the crossing immensely and all seemed unusually eager to start the nine days training that will precede the actual opening of the international track event.

TUNNEY ISN'T GOING TO K. O. TOM IN FIGHT

Rugged New Zealand Blacksmith Said To Be a Bear For Punishment.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY U. P. Staff Correspondent

FAIR HAVEN, N. J., July 20.—Another heavyweight championship title may change hands by decision next Thursday night at the Yankee stadium when Tom Heeney, who built his broad back by swinging a sledgehammer over an anvil in a New Zealand blacksmith shop, meets Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion in a 15 round title bout.

The title changed hands for the first time in history by decision when Tunney dethroned Dempsey in a rain at Philadelphia in Sept., 1926.

Tunney hasn't a chance to knock out Heeney. Heeney isn't a smart boxer but he is rugged enough to take the champion's best shots over the 15-round route.

Tunney is not meeting a leg weary Dempsey this time. Heeney doesn't carry the murderous punch of Dempsey but he has the strength and endurance to stand up under the most terrific punishment Tunney can give him.

The challenger has no regard whatsoever for Tunney's ability as a champion, a boxer, or a fighter.

"Because Tunney is champion doesn't mean a thing to me," Heeney said today. "He is just another fighter to me. I am willing to trade punches with him for 15 rounds and believe I will come out ahead."

Tunney got Dempsey's goat by flying from Stroudsburg, Pa., to Philadelphia for his first fight. Tunney thinks he will get Heeney's goat by flying from Specular, N. Y., to New York for this fight. In view of the recent accident in which two of the champion's friends were injured Tunney apparently is afraid not to live up to his original plan to fly to New York for this fight, but he hasn't a ghost of a chance to unnerve Heeney by making the trip by air.

"I don't care if Tunney walks to New York, the day of the fight," Heeney said this morning.

"That guy makes me tired about all of his silly superstition. This fight is not going to be won by any scheme or plans. The guy that lands the most blows for 15 rounds is going to win and I believe I can hit Tunney oftener over this route than he can hit me."

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY

Among the track and field stars at home when the S. S. Roosevelt sailed for Amsterdam were some of America's greatest athletes theoretically the 82 members of the United States track and field team represent the nation's best athletes. Actually, they do not.

From the athletes not selected for the Olympic team another group could be selected which undoubtedly would roll up many points at Amsterdam.

The most flagrant example of injustice done the athletes competing for the Olympic team at Cambridge involved Ross Nichols, Stanford university's great hurdler. Leading the field in the final of the 110-meter hurdles, Nichols stumbled on the ninth hurdle and fell to the ground, finishing last.

Specific proof was given the Olympic Selection Committee that the hurdle which tripped Nichols was out of place through negligence of the officials, but the committee refused to place Nichols on the team. Prior to this Nichols had won the intercollegiate 120-yard hurdle championship and proved he was one of the country's outstanding hurdlers.

Baskin Thought Wrongly
C. E. Patterson of Princeton, one of the assistant marshals, at the Olympic finals, saw the hurdle out of place in Nichols' lane and rushed forward to put it back in place only to assist as he feared he might rattle Nichols who was nearing the hurdle.

Baseball

Yesterday's hero.—Rube Walbert, Athletics' pitcher, who held the St. Louis Browns to two hits.

The Athletics could get only four hits off Sam Gray, their former teammate, but they were enough to win the first game: 2 to 0. Philadelphia won the second game by bunching its seven hits against Blacholder. The score was 4 to 3.

Ed Morris pitched steadily for Boston and the Red Sox defeated Cleveland 3 to 2. It was Morris' thirteenth victory of the season.

Home runs by Hafey and Harpner enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to defeat the Phillies 6 to 5.

Four Cincinnati pitchers were touched for thirteen hits and Boston defeated the Reds 9 to 4. Greenfield and Delaney pitched well for the Braves.

Doug McWeeny stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates.

EVER SMOKE RIPE TOBACCO CIGARS?

Maybe. But Did You Ever Buy Them for a Nickel?

Most every smoker knows that the secret of true, sweet, mellow flavor in a cigar is fully ripened tobacco. The top leaves of the tobacco plant are under-ripe at harvest—they are usually bitter. The bottom leaves are over-ripe—usually "flat." The choice fully-ripe middle leaves are generally sorted out and used only in the higher priced cigars.

But here, gentlemen, is a five-center made of ripe tobacco from heart to wrapper. Havana Ribbon. Ripe tobacco!—Money saving!... Isn't that just about the most sensational cigar news that's come your way in many a day? Grab a nickel; light out to the nearest cigar counter; light up a Havana Ribbon; and light into the nearest nickel smoke that's ever touched your lips. Also sold in Practical Pocket Packages of five cigars.

Water of Meaco Pool Is Luring Those Who Love To Cavort In Water.

The water of Meaco Pool, Chillicothe, Ohio, was tested by the city chemist of the City Health Department, and the results of this test indicate that the water in Meaco Pool is free from pollution and has the approval of the City Health Department as a pool in which no need fear of coming in contact with any infectious bacteria.

This report is highly pleasing to the management of the Meaco Pool as they have been making every effort to maintain a strictly sanitary and healthful as well as pleasant condition at this public pleasure park.

Before opening Meaco Pool this season, the equipment was given a thorough cleaning and overhauling. The pool itself was painted with a white concrete cement especially adapted for swimming pools, which has added considerably to its attractiveness. A competent life guard and manager were engaged for the season which assures the inexperienced swimmer absolute safety and protection while engaged on this healthful sport. These men also assure the pool being maintained and operated in an orderly manner and display a courtesy in their relations to the public patronizing the pool, which is desired.

The water in Meaco Pool is replaced one one-half times daily by a continuous flow of pure water from the deep wells of The Mead Pulp and Paper company from an eight inch feed pipe, which water overflows to drains at the water level of the pool. The water is chlorinated at its source to prevent any objectionable bacteria from polluting the pool.

Showers are furnished for the swimmers to be used before entering the pool and after leaving, and convenient locker and towel service is available for each individual.

Large crowds have been patronizing this pool this year, finding relief from the intense heat which we have been having in this vicinity this season. The sand beaches, diving boards and cool water at Meaco Pool have been a source of pleasure to many in the past few weeks.
